

Scarred4Life Sahara Rally July 2007

Rules

- 1: All rally crew must insure their own vehicles and take out their own travel insurance covering accident and illness.
- 2: All rally crew must assess their own level of fitness to complete the challenge, remembering the longevity of the rally and temperature extremes.
- 3: "Scarred4life" is not acting as a tour operator or insures any of the vehicles or persons involved in the Sahara Rally.
- 4: All rally crew to have their own medical cover and are responsible for their own evacuation from any country in the event of breakdown or illness. Advice and mechanics will be available at most times.
- 5: Some of the funds raised will naturally be used to meet the rally costs, i.e. promotional, literature, posters, maps etc.
- 6: If in any event the rally is cancelled or postponed due to unforeseen circumstances, a full refund will be returned less negligible administration costs incurred in arranging the rally. All registration forms will be kept to allow all rally crew to take part at a rearranged date.
- 7: To avoid accusations of misrepresentation all fundraisers and "Scarred4life" fall under the Charities Act 1992. Therefore, when fundraising, it must be clear to every donor that some of the sponsorship money will go to advertising their company by way of vehicle advertising, stickers and that "Scarred4life" and rally crew are not personally paying for the whole cost of the trip and their advertising. All monies raised must go to the respected charities except for costs detailed above.
- 8: All rally crew must book their own channel crossings, particularly the English Channel as "Scarred4life" is not a tour operator. Discounts, times and advice on the above can be obtained from Karl Scarr.
- 9: All monies and deposits will be viewed and received as donations and not as registration fees.
- 10: "Scarred4life" owns all the copyrights on all material produced for the rally.
- 11: "Scarred4life" must approve all promotional and advertising material in advance.
- 12: All promotional material required for fundraising is obtainable from "Scarred4life".
- 13: All rally crew will be asked to sign a disclaimer stating that their "participation is at their own risk".
